

NATIONAL DATA ARCHIVE ON NDACAN CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT

THE NDACAN UPDATA

Spring 2023 (Vol. 61)

The NDACAN Updata is your source for important Archive announcements.

SUMMER RESEARCH INSTITUTE 2023

NDACAN is holding its annual Summer Research Institute (SRI) on June 1, June 2, June 5, and June 6, 2023. The SRI is a free virtual workshop in which participants analyze NDACAN datasets over multiple days with close support and expertise provided by NDACAN staff as-needed. The SRI also provides participating child abuse and neglect researchers an opportunity for networking and collaborating with each other. The Application deadline is March 17, 2023 – please visit our Summer Research Institute page to apply.

OFFICE HOURS SPRING 2023

NDACAN is hosting monthly Office Hours this Spring 2023 from 12pm to 1pm EST on the 2nd Friday of each month through May 2023. The Office Hours are an opportunity to get support from our team and chat with other data users in an informal setting. The first 30 minutes are open time with breakout rooms with NDACAN staff to provide technical support for survey and administrative data, statistical consulting, and to allow for networking opportunities. The second 30 minutes are dedicated to a specific theme, presentation, or workshop. Regardless of your stage of research, our expert team is here to help. The events are free but advanced registration is required through the link provided below.

Office Hours Spring 2023 Schedule

Second Friday of each month from 12pm – 1pm EST

- April 14: Data Careers in Child Welfare
  - Presenter: Judy Cannon of Mathematica & more!
- May 12: Forging Research Partnerships with Organizations
  - Panelists: Tasseli McKay, Anna Austin, & Emily Putnam-Horstein

CALL FOR DATA USERS TO SEND CITATIONS

NDACAN maintains a reference list of scholarly work produced using Archive data. You can access the Child Abuse and Neglect Digital Library \(canDL\) directly or from our canDL Bibliography information page. Please visit the canDL to check if your publications that use Archive data are listed, and contact us if you have references to add (NDACANsupport@cornell.edu). When submitting citations, please be sure to include the DOI link.

STAY CONNECTED TO #NDACAN

For the latest updates on NDACAN activities, make sure to follow us on Twitter @NDACAN\_CU. NDACAN curates its Twitter content to highlight the availability and research potential of NDACAN data holdings, trainings, and user support services for child welfare researchers. You are encouraged to follow our feed and tweet your publications or presentations at @NDACAN\_CU to share the various ways that NDACAN is advancing the field of child welfare research.

CALL FOR DATASETS

Research has demonstrated an increased citation rate for publications whose investigators share data. Depositing your data with NDACAN can facilitate long-term preservation and provide researchers access to your data for secondary analysis. The Archive is seeking quantitative datasets to add to our collection. Please contact us (NDACANsupport@cornell.edu) if you have data or know of data that would benefit researchers, or visit the Contribute Data page of our website.

Are you a member of our Child Maltreatment Research List Serve (CMRL)?

The Archive moderates an e-mail list for discussions of research issues relevant to child abuse and neglect. To subscribe or to alter your subscription, visit our CMRL page.

NDACAN Updata Newsletter Subscription Preferences

NDACAN sends The NDACAN Updata e-newsletter to the CMRL membership, to our general mailings list, and to all active users of Archive datasets. If you would like to stop receiving general mailings, but still want updates about datasets that you're using, please email us using this link. If you would like to stop receiving general mailings and no longer use any datasets, please email us using this link.

NDACAN is a joint project of Duke University and Cornell University.
